The River.

Beautiful river,
With sun-light aquiver,
Rippling, and dimpling, and sparkling forever!
Where the cool forests meet,
Kissing the mountains' feet,
Thou, through the valley sweet,
Hast'ning with foot-steps fleet,
Loitering never!

Musical river,
Rhythmical ever,
Pathetic, passionate, discordant never!
Ah! I remember well,
Better than tongue can tell,
How, like a fairy-bell
Ringing its silvery knell,
Came thy soft, trem'lous tones floating forever! Bountiful river—
Bless we thy Giver—
Useful and busy as beautiful ever!
Where the tall ohlimneys kneel,
Turning the giant wheel,
Whirling the rapid reel,
Floating the vessel's keel,
Indolent never!

Wonderful river,
Despairing never,
Thou dost teach man what he can to endeavor!
Yet at this weekness mock,
And, with mad, fleecy flock,
Down over walls of rock,
Plunging with thundrous shock,
Exultant, all conquiring, rush on forever!

Icy-cold river,
Thou dost oft sever
Hearts of affection to meet again never!
Children and mother,
Sister and brother,
Many a loved one from arms of her lover—
Thou, in a stately march,
Under the bridge's arch,
Sweeping majestic, and holding thy breath,
As mortals, in
Silence, sweep under the archway of death!
Martical viver

Mystical river,
With moonbeams aquiver,
Or, darkling with shadows, still flowing ever!
So on life's billow
Shine we or shiver,
Sparkling with gladness, or under grief's willow, Dashed over rocks, or with moss for our pillow—

Still onward flowing,
Unknown, unknowing,
Whitherward going,
Save to the Giver,
Omniscient of life and the beantiful river!

newspaper that knows best how to deal with the tender emotions of the human heart. The "simple creature named Higgins, who used to haul rock for old Matby," had far more sense about such things than the Sun, with all its boasted addictedness to the genial habit of shining for all. "When the lamented Judge Bagley tripped and fell down the Court House stairs and broke his neck," says Mark Twain, in the June Galaxy, was a great question how to break the news to poor Mrs. Bagley. But finally, the body was put into Higgins' wagon, and he was instructed to take it to Mrs. B., but to be very guarded and discreet in his language, and not break the news to her at once, but do it gradually and gently. When Higgins got there with his sad freight, he shouted till Mrs. Bag-

THIS HOTEL, so widely and popularly known as the favorite resort of Southerners, while sojourning in this city, has been released for a term of years by its present proprietors, and is now in process of thorough removation. No expense will be spared to render it, as in days of yore, an agreeable home for its patrons. The proprietors, while tendering their sincere thanks for the very liberal support they have received, beg leave to assure their guests that in the future the Hotel will retain its former well-earned reputation.

"Does the widder Bagley live here?"

"The widow Bagley? No, sir!"

"I'll bet she does. But have it your own way. Well, does Judge Bagley live here?"

"Yes, Judgo Bagley lives here."
"I'll bet he don't. But never mind—it ain't for me to contradict. Is the Judge in?"
"No, not at present."

to obtain free transportation was lately perpetrated in Memphis. A man named Schwartz confessed to having murdered a Louisville iron founder, named Perkins, three years ago. He stated that he had been running away, hauuted by the crime long enough, and requested that he might be arrested and brought to trial. Now it turns out that Perkins was trial. Now it turns out that Perkins was not murdered, that he was not an iron founder, and that he never lived in Louisville, and that Schwartz is a dead heat who merely wished to be sent from n. w. HAVING completed their extensive Manufactory, are now prepared to returns for their investments.

This Company, under the direction entirely of Southern men of high character, offers in ducements which will recommend it to Southern planters. Their works are among the largest and most complete in the United States, and enable them to prepare at home an abundant supply of the proper solvent for the South Carolina native Bone Phosphates which are near by. From these Phosphates they propose to manufacture a Fertilizer even richer in soinble Phosphate than those made from raw bones, and containing more than twice the quantity of Super-Phosphate of Lime found in the best average Manures heretofore offered for the rates at which we offer them being no higher than the average price of other Fertilizers, while the Manures contain twice as much fertilizing material; they are in fact much cheaper to the consumer. They are offered on the market in two forms, with a guarantee that the material in each will correspond to the advertisement.
